CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 22.-Walter Johnson and Joe Boehling, perhaps the best pair of flingers on the Griffmen's staff, will face the University of Virginia today.

Johnson has worked once for the regulars against Uncle Nick Alt- the Baseball Players' Fraternity, in rock's team, while Joe Boehling has which he made a plea for baseball taken part in two practice contests. Both are progressing favorably and today's workout against the college in a war that the players intend to boys will be the best of experience for them at this time of the year.

In addition, all the citizens of Charlottesville, unable to see major leaguers except after a long ride to Washing- Dave Dunn Quits ton, are evincing interest, and, with good weather, many of them will swell the attendance. To see Johnson and Boehling twirl in one game will last many of them for the remainder of the year.

Virginia's team will not be as strong student and never found trouble in as it might be, owing to the examina- keeping well above the danger mark which continue through this during the football season. Dave, who will week. However, Coach Ryan hopes to captain the Fordham eleven next fall, have an aggregation on the field that will make a good showing, even against Johnson and Edehling. Facing such tootball season is on. practice and Coach Ryan acts wisely in stacking his youngsters up against the major league stars at every opportunity.

After today's game Virginia will have but one more game with the Griffmen. Wednesday will see the final conflict between these two teams for this spring. On the other days of the week the two big league squads will play each other. On Friday but one long practice will be held, finishing about 1 o'clock. Lunch will follow and then the regulars will depart for Richmond, while the rookies, under command of Uncle Nick Altrock, will go to Washington. On Saturday the rookies will meet the Alexandria Cardinals at Alexandria and the regulars will feet lack. lars will face Jack Dunn's Internationals at Richmond.

Team work will be insisted upon this week by the Old Fox in preparation for the games coming quickly on the spring schedule. It is possible to play Virginia without much of a set of signals, but when opposing professional outfitsthat's a different matter. With good weather, nine games remain to be played here, two of them with Virginia. In all these contests Manager Griffith will lay great stress upon the correct interpretation of the various signs that he has been teaching his athletes. This will be a hard week for slow thinkers. no matter what positions they hold down.

"My team is coming along in fine style," said the Old Fox this morning. While I'll drive them hard all week, yet it will be a tapering off in many ways. Our games with Richmond and the National League clubs are almost on us, and we must be ready. Of course, the boys will bat and field and run around the track, but 'mside base-ball' will also take up a lot of their attention. Big league players must have brains above all things. Why, Mike Kelly was a slow runner, but so brainy was he that he was the most dangerous hase runner of his day. That's what brains can do for a ball player. It gives Our games with Richmond and brains can do for a ball player. It gives him the old percentage on the other fellow with slower brains.

Furthermore, they have the right fighting spirit and a world of confidence. If they can show half the ability they think they have, we'll have a prosperous

That the Griffmen are confident of coming out pretty close to the top of the procession this year can be seen easily, after a short chat with any of them. No one will actually claim the pennant, of course, but one and all believe that Washington's best hance is in 1915, even better than it looked to be in 1912, the year of that wonderful, record-breaking streak in the West. "Our hardest team to defeat has George McBride, the veteran short-stop and captain of the team. "I'm now talking about the team in the last three geasons, since Griff came to

Another game, casino, is really the favorite among the players, with Walter Johnson way out in front for adeptness. The game differs slightly from the average game of casino as played by the ordinary public, seeming to depend upon the force with which each card is slammed on the table. The casino player, who can wallop his knuckles and the card on the table instantaneously, naturally creates the biggest racket and wins the game. People who think that a game of casino isn't exercise should lamp these birds in action. Sunday In Camp

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 22.-Griff's burlies manipulated the last Sunday in camp with the usual dexterity, converting an otherwise dull session into quite an enjoyable seance. There was no baseball practice yesterday, but there was every other kind of practice, from chinning the chandelier to hurdling all the blue notes on the piano. E. Ainsmith claims to hold the chandelier chinning championship of the camp, managing to chin the chandelier almost once before putting it out of commission, and thus depriving all the other chandelier chinners
